

Commonwealth Writers

We launched a new website for the Commonwealth Foundation back in late 2011. The website was created to allow writers around the world (and particularly from the Commonwealth countries) to meet online, share ideas and discuss the world of writing. Two competitions were launched via the website and judging continues on an annual basis. We work closely with the Commonwealth Foundation in order to create strong public relations and great communications to match.

“We’re all delighted with the site and how much effort you are all putting in to make the project a success.”
 Claire Turner - Communications Manager at Commonwealth Foundation
